

TEEN DATING VIOLENCE

SAFETY AWARENESS TIPS

Teen dating violence is defined as the physical, psychological, emotional, or sexual violence within a dating relationship, including stalking. It can occur in person or electronically and can occur between a current or former dating partner.

DID YOU KNOW?

1 in 11 females and 1 in 15 male high school students report having experienced physical dating violence in 2020.

-CDC 2021 TDV Report

25% of female and 17% of male abuse survivors reported missing at least one day of school due to abuse.

-CDC Intimate Partner Violence Prevention

3.5 Million women and 900K men reported that the intimate partner abuse occurred before turning 18.

-CDC 2021 TDV Report

1 in 8 female and 1 in 26 male high school students report having experienced sexual dating violence in 2020.

-CDC 2021 TDV Report

PREVENTION

End it before it begins – help preteens and young teens know and recognize teen dating violence warning signs.

Become a nonjudgmental helpline:

- Notice behavior changes in your child
- Initiate conversations with your child. They might want to talk but may not be sure how to start the conversation
- Talk in a comfortable environment – away from siblings and distractions. You are more likely to get answers when your child feels safe, rather than confronted
- Listen respectfully and allow them to share fully before offering solutions
- Support your child and confirm to them you are a good, nonjudgmental resource
- Give your child realistic strategies for confronting the problem effectively
- Empower bystanders with ideas on how to get help

CONVERSATION

- How are things going? Your teen may not respond in the way you want, remain calm and be sincere about wanting to know how things are going in their life
- What are your friends' dating relationships like? Do they make any kind of commitment to each other? Do kids talk to each other about their feelings for their boyfriend or girlfriend? Are there certain things boys want that girls don't? Girls want but boys don't? This question will give you insight on how your teen values relationships
- Have you ever seen any kind of abusive behavior between two people who are going out? For example, a boy sees his girlfriend talking to another guy, so he pulls her by the arm and yanks her away. Give examples and then ask your teen if they consider it violence
- Why do you think someone would abuse someone they were dating? This may bring up uncomfortable disagreements or questions about what you personally believe
- Why might a person stay in an abusive relationship?
- What makes a relationship healthy? If your teen is dating, ask them how the relationship is going. If they aren't dating anyone at the time, ask them, "When you think about going out with someone, what are some behaviors that would be okay and/or what are some you would have a problem with?"
- What can you do if you have a friend who is threatened – or a friend who is abusive?

WHERE TO REPORT

If you are in danger, immediately call 911

If you suspect abuse of a minor,
you must report to DFPS at 1-800-252-5400

National Teen Dating Abuse Hotline
1-866-331-9474
CHAT: loveisrespect.org
TEXT: LOVEIS to 22522

PARTNERS & RESOURCES

- Houston Area Women's Center (HAWC): is a 501©3 organization with a mission "to create social change by taking action against personal and societal patterns of violence and oppression." hawc.org
- AVDA: is a nonprofit organization that has served the Houston community for 40 years with the mission to end family violence by advocating for the safety and self-determination of victims, promoting accountability for abusers and fostering a community response to abuse. avda-tx.org
- Texas Health and Human Services: mission to serve the health, safety and well-being of Texans with good stewardship of public resources. hhs.texas.gov

SAFETY PLANNING FOR YOURSELF OR A LOVED ONE

The decision to leave an abusive relationship can be a dangerous one. In order to protect your safety or the safety of a loved one during this process, it is essential to prepare a safety plan.

To schedule a prevention presentation and learn more about teen dating violence, please fill out our presentation request link here:
https://crime-stoppers.org/presentation_request